Nick Hayes, President of Volkmann Inc., stated: "The primary objective of the training was to ensure that each of our representatives became completely comfortable with the functionality of our systems and the lean, dense and plug flow applications for which they are suited. This will better qualify them to assist clients in the selection of the correct equipment and to support them through installation and subsequent operation."

Representatives were treated to a tour of Volkmann GmbH's recently renovated and expanded state-of-the-art manufacturing and office spaces. The newest addition of Volkmann conveyors were demonstrated, and the representatives were taken on a tour of the nearby manufacturing plant of Meister Flooring to see Volkmann equipment in operation.
